Sophie was a 16-year-old girl who loved fashion. She enjoyed shopping for new clothes and always tried to follow the latest trends. Every weekend, she went to the shopping mall with her best friend, Emma. They spent hours looking at dresses, shoes, and accessories.

Sophie's favourite colours were pink and white, and she always wore stylish outfits. She often read fashion magazines and followed famous designers on social media. She dreamed of becoming a fashion designer in the future and wanted to create her own clothing brand.

Although Sophie loved shopping, she also tried to be responsible. She preferred to buy high-quality clothes that lasted longer instead of cheap items that wore out quickly. Sometimes, she even redesigned old clothes to make them look new again.

For Sophie, fashion was not just about wearing beautiful clothes. She believed that style was a way to express personality and creativity. That was why she always mixed different styles to create her own unique look.
